Will Undoubtedly be Forthcoming From Salisbury.

BRITISH MINISTER'S BLUNDER.

Who Wrote the Murchison Letter?—Opinions of the English Press—Nothing Definite Obtained.

NEW YORK, October 29.—A Washington special says that the United States government has taken such steps as will certainly result in the retirement of Lord Sackville West from the office as British minister, is beyond doubt. This is about the only statement concerning the outcome of Lord Sackville's unwarranted impertinent meddling in the impending political canvass that can be made on positive authority here. In all other particulars everybody who is conversant with the facts maintains a discreet studied silence or speaks evasively. In spite of the disinclination on the part of the authorities to talk, there is still every reason to believe this government has not demanded the recall of Lord Sackville. It has not gone so far, the simple reason being, it expects to see the British minister take his departure without putting the United States to the necessity of making such a demand. It is known in high government circles that the opinion held, after the plain facts of the minister's correspondence with the undiscovered Murchison has been laid before Her Majesty's government, leaves only one course to be taken, and that is to call Lord Sackville home. It is thought by some Lord Salisbury may possibly permit Lord Sackville to resign, in consideration of the fact that he had served his government more than forty years before making such a colossal blunder. But that would be simply a more considerate way of ordering his recall, and the result would be the same. The plain facts are now in Lord Salisbury's possession, and American authorities confidently await the inevitable retirement of Lord Sackville from the office. Minister West absolutely declined to affirm or deny the truth of the large number of rumors which found their way into print, the impression created by his refusal being that he had instructions from his government to that effect. The most he would say was that the generality of published rumors surprised him very much.

LOUISVILLE, October 29.—The Courier-Journal's Omaha correspondent alleges that Patrick Egan, ex-president of the Irish National League, is the author of the now noted Murchison letter to Minister West. The correspondent claims to have received his information from a Republican editor.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., October 29.—The identity of the mysterious Charles F. Murchison, the writer of the Pomona letter to Minister Sackville West, is still a secret. There is no truth in the story telegraphed from here that W. A. Bell, a lawyer of Pomona, is the real writer of the letter. This is given on the authority of Colonel H. G. Otis, editor of the Times, this city, who has been in the secret from the first, and who stated to an Associated Press representative that the story was absolutely untrue. When asked when his name would be given to the public, Otis replied he could not answer, except to say that it will be made public when the necessities of the case requires, "and that," he added, "is a question to be determined by those who are in possession of the facts." An Association Press representative obtained from him an emphatic denial that he was the author of the letter.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—Secretary Bayard had several conferences with the President to-day concerning the Lord Sackville letter and other matters relating to the affairs of State. Another message was sent to Minister Phelps, and it is believed a cablegram was received from him at the Department of State during the afternoon, but nothing can be learned.

WILMINGTON, Del., October 29.—To a reporter of the Morning News Secretary Bayard said, "to-day, in regard to the letter of Lord Sackville West, it was written a month ago, and they have had possession of it three weeks. Under other circumstances it would be of no importance. I first heard of it when Blaine used it in his New York speech. I gave no attention to it, as I knew everything was fuel to Blaine's fire. It was a stupid thing to do, and when Minister West showed me the original letter I expressed surprise that he should have replied to it under the circumstances. He replied: 'Well, I did it.'"

POMONA, Cal., October 29.—Four detectives have been here a few days searching for clues to the identity of the author of the Murchison letter. Chairman Barnum has sent word from the National Democratic Committee to spare no expense, and especially as to do with the authorship of the letter.

CHICAGO, October 29.—Ex-Senator McDonald in an interview expressed the opinion that the "West letter" will help, instead of hurt, the Democratic Party because its chief effect will be to show the desperation of the Republican Party. Said he, "The letter will have no effect," adding, "there is nothing in it that can do us any damage."

LONDON, October 29.—Commenting on Minister Sackville West's letter, the Daily News says: "Lord Sackville has done nothing of which any honest man need be ashamed. But there are blunders which are worse than crimes." The Daily Telegraph says: "Nothing can excuse the incontinence of Lord Sackville, except his transparent good faith and candor."

The Standard says: "It would be incorrect to say the American government has already asked for the recall of Lord Sackville, but it has taken a step a little short of that extreme measure. It does not follow that an expulsion will be resorted to, but the matter, however, is a delicate one. It would be best for Lord Sackville to resign, in order to avoid further unpleasantness."

The Times says: "It seems to be certain the American government has taken a step that renders it impossible for Lord Sackville to remain in Washington. We are not prepared to censure Sackville. A British minister, whether at Washington or elsewhere, must be an English gentleman, and he may be forgiven if he is not up to all the dirty tricks of American politicians."

The Chronicle says: "The singular folly of Lord Sackville could hardly be matched for indiscretion, but it is manifestly impossible for the government to yield to the pressure such as a New York paper declares will be applied. Lord Salisbury had a private conference with Minister Phelps at Hatfield House to-day, regarding the Sackville affair."

The Pall Mall, writing about the Sackville incident, expresses the opinion that the excitement caused in America is largely due to the political effect, and for a change of changing the Irish vote, by abusing England. It thinks no one in America would care two straws what Lord Sackville wrote, said or thought.

The Globe holds that the most satisfactory denouement of the arrangement would be to send instructions to Lord Sackville to keep his opinion to himself while at Washington. The American political tactics, in its opinion, are outside of the notice of any foreign power.

The St. James Gazette maintains that Lord Sackville cannot remain at Washington. It says he should have known better than to walk into a net spread before his eyes.

LONDON, October 29.—The Standard believes Lord Sackville has intimated his readiness to resign.

NUMBER OF ITALIANS SENT UP.

The Commissioner of Customs Sends His Report—Telegrams From Various Places.

Thurman En Route.

WHEELING, W. Va. October 29.—Judge Thurman, his son Allen W. and a newspaper representative left Columbus this morning, and until Janesville was reached, had a quiet time. At that place 400 or 500 men had come to greet the "Old Roman." He thanked them in a brief speech and told them to vote according to their own conscience, adding that he should vote for that great good man, Grover Cleveland. Another small crowd assembled at Cambridge, and some one asked him "How about the Sackville letter." The Judge replied it was too transparent a trick to have any influence on the people. Small gatherings were also addressed at Barnesville and Bellaire. Arriving at Wheeling, the judge was driven to the hotel, amid showers of fireworks and the din of enthusiastic cheers. To-morrow he will speak at the rink.

Blustering Ben.

DETROIT, October 29.—General Benjamin F. Butler spoke to the largest political gathering of the campaign at Detroit in the rink to-night. The large building was completely packed, while several thousand people got no nearer than outside the door. The general was in poor voice, and it was with difficulty that he made himself heard. He began by saying he is an old man, and his political days are over. He had been a Greenbacker, and was proud of it. There no longer existed a necessity for the Greenback Party, as they had secured all they wanted. It made no difference to him who was President. A President could not do much harm, anyway, but he preferred to see Harrison elected because he believed in protection to capital and labor. General Butler then proceeded to an elaborate discussion of the tariff and Mills bill. Referring to the Sackville-West letter, he said it made no difference whether the Murchison letter was a forgery or not; that the British minister's letter was not.

Counterfeiters Sentenced.

NEW YORK, October 29.—In the United States circuit court to-day, Judge Benedict sentenced six counterfeiters to various terms of imprisonment. The detectives arrested them and locked them up.

A Chinese Funeral.

NEW YORK, October 29.—In the rear of an undertaking establishment in Mott Street, this morning, was presented a strange scene. Chinamen, inquisitive persons of all nationalities and creeds moved about the dimly lighted place. The wooden ceiling was hung in black and white, and curiously striped draperies of black ornamented the walls. Near the further end of the room, on a black covered dais, was a casket which contained the embalmed remains of Li Yu Doo, the general of the Black Flags. The receptacle was of red cedar, covered with broadcloth and trimmings of solid silver. The plate on top read: "Li Yu Doo, died October 19, 1888, aged 55 years. We meet on the level, we part on the square." The remains were dressed in the garments usually worn in life. Placed about the room were the usual emblems at a Chinese funeral, including chop sticks, playing cards, rice, oranges, roast pig and tea. The mourners were dressed in black and white and chanted a dirge. The brass band, which played "The Dead March in Saul," was the only non-Oriental part of the performance. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the remains were taken to Evergreen Cemetery and buried.
